Doubl Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-60 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-22 of U.S. Patent No. 6,152,189. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the instant claims differ only nominally from those already patented.

Specifically, instant claims 1-51 differ from the patented claims in that they include the additional step or means for cooling. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include cooling capability in the method and apparatus of the patented claims in order to enable sampling of fluids which had been heated during processing, reaction or storage.

Instant claims 52-60 differ from the patented claims in that they specify that the valve closing and needle withdrawal are automatically actuated. However, the patent claims recite that the valve is closed automatically as the needle is withdrawn. See e.g. patented claim 1. It is evident, therefore, that the instant claim language is fully anticipated by the patented claims and differs only nominally therefrom.

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure for the same reasons applied in the parent applications.
